- r) Live in the anointing/christ

It is entirely a matter of understood and perceived significance and worth that attracts people toward someone, or something—whether new, or not seen, heard, felt, touched, smelt, tasted, or communicated before.

How well we transfer these values of the Lord into our own personal culture and nature determines the value, significance and worth others eventually bestow toward and on us!

These Values must be lived by all of our family/people in every area of life as they are led by the spiritual example of our own exemplary leadership.

The word 'people' is already here in our Lord's Values Statement uniquely related to 'belief' for 'building, transforming and changing lives'. We shall see it's not just 'theirs', but also 'ours' that is changing profoundly!

We all feel 'value' and 'respect' and sense 'joy' and 'passion' by the way we are treated and spoken to.

'Integrity' and 'trust' however must be earned by our consistency.

People tell others how they are 'treated and valued' first – long before they will talk about 'excellence' and 'innovation' or anything else they may, or may not be happy with.

Why is this? Because it is the main breaker or maker of relationship development between us. It is called 'connection' – the connecting links the Lord has given us in the anointing we can all hook up with, which then give us the chance to earn loyalty and trust in our integrity and V.V. of course.

Self Test:

Go ahead, put your name into it and ask yourself the question: Is ..... pulling his/her weight in portraying Christ's Values in this kingdom partnership?

Would my family, colleagues and co-workers confirm my answer?

Values are 'learnt' by Mentoring under God our Father. They are inherent in His nature and are found within the Spirit's anointing imparted to us as the 'Law of the Spirit of Life'.

While we all start off in ignorance, 'ignorance' is not a bad word! To 'ignore the obvious' at your detriment is bad!

However, knowledge leaves more people in a state of ignorance than ignorance itself will, as knowledge incurred by people carries the risk of itself becoming the enduring cause of why most stop learning. It is a natural human phenomenon! Fight or flight then becomes the natural response or reaction to events caused by either our limited knowledge or complete ignorance.

There is only one thing worse than not knowing and that is thinking you know! 'Thinking' you 'know' has killed more people, families, businesses, revenue, income, and people's dreams, than knowing nothing at all.

Consider the following:

1. Those who know they know little will wisely pay to learn much.
2. The unknown costs of your ignorance may never be known—but—the overall costs of your knowledge and what you've spent on it re time, effort, energy and money are already determining both your current and future wellbeing and profit for those of you in providing for your life and family, including business—not to mention your personal development.
3. The price of 'not knowing what you are doing' or 'planning to do' usually consumes capital and retards growth by being parked in neutral with the brakes on while the mind drifts—the default state of drift—downhill... Like those who 'go with the flow' can't help but head downstream and on out into the ocean, ending up lost at sea in a sea of part knowledge wondering how they got there!
4. Knowledge is a more frightening trap to be ensnared with than ignorance. Knowledge is a 'flow'—it is dynamic—where is it taking you? Ignorance is static—it can't take you anywhere.
5. Learn from your Father why knowledge keeps most people ignorant in areas they have never dreamed of—especially 'specialist' and 'expert' knowledge.
6. Your ignorance is not the problem—it is your knowledge quotient i.e. lack of complete, or wrong knowledge.

7. People are imprisoned by their own knowledge, and many by the knowledge of others, far more than they ever will be by their own ignorance.
8. Knowledge of what you think are minor faults and habits, easily become the major prisons from which most will never be free without help.
9. People are self-imprisoned by their own knowledge confined minds, and not their ignorance—no one can be imprisoned by thoughts that aren't there.
10. Learning by your mistakes costs heaps more than paying for help to do it right the first time. It is time to let your heavenly Father mentor you into the 'mind of Christ' His Anointed One—in order to live in true value as revealed in Spirit by the Lord's anointing enabling us to live in His Realm—His Kingdom!

When is it the 'Wrong Time' for you to engage a Mentor, a Coach or a Consultant for yourself, your family and your business? Why humans wait until a disaster happens, or until after the horse has bolted, is indicative of human nature! But that is precisely the wrong time as you must engage in help beforehand if you wish to avoid disaster or keep your family, horse (business) safe, contained and healthy.

Here is your checklist of engagement or not with your heavenly Father:

- When you think it costs too much and you believe you know most of what you think you will need for yourself, family, business or your profession, etc. You've secured your destiny by deciding on the correct piece of real estate in the heavenlies upon your retirement from your earthly life as offered you are told, by Jesus Christ!
- When you think you can't afford the time/money/effort for a mentor because you can hardly afford to have a family, be in or buy a business, go to clubs, pubs and church in the first place.
- 'Gosh! It's only a small endeavour for goodness sakes—it can't really be that hard!'—is your attitude and mindset.
- After you've realised that you really don't know why or what you're doing in life, in your job or business after-all—especially when you are not even making enough money to pay yourself.
- After you've financially crashed or gone bankrupt.
- After you've lost or used all your capital (money).
- After you find out you've hired the wrong people.
- After you realise you are absolutely in the wrong location bound to a very long marriage.

- After you realise you are entirely in the wrong position in the wrong group but it seemed like a good idea at the time and it saved you rent money etc.—but where are the people—the family.
- After you begin to hate what you've bought into or found yourself doing—including volunteering for Jesus.
- After you find out you've bought into 'A Nightmare' instead of 'The Dream'.
- After you banked on the government tax-cut and you still can't afford your own haircut.
- When you start chewing off your fingernails instead of cutting them or getting a manicure.
- When you are running around in circles that are getting smaller and smaller so now the only toes you tread on are your own— 'thank God' say all the others who once knew you or worked for you, or with you not so long ago, who no longer wish to be part of your 'successful' failure and that's not counting the ones you fired because of your own incompetence (not knowing what to do or what's really going on).
- After you end up in Court over issues you never dreamed could appear or ensnare you.

Don't give up and wait for the Undertaker!

Get up and call the 'Overcomers' who've been there, done that, read the books, viewed the videos, seen the movies, watched the plays, sung through all the hymns and musicals, did all the expo's, organised the conventions, agonised thru the conferences, orchestrated the time-wasting seminars, wrote the boring articles, cooked the books to sell the right real-estate, location, location, location, heaven or hell businesses—where would you rather spend eternity, which lake shores would you choose for your holiday cabin—the 'lake of fire' or the 'crystal lake' in front of God's throne—those who ran in the charity marathons to punish themselves for having so much, did the CEO and Executive Sleep-Out-Rough-Night every year so they wouldn't forget the homeless who got to sleep in a shelter once or twice a year, sent their funds off-shore for a holiday minus the tagalongs (dodging the taxman), did time in the Bahamas, in London, in the Cayman Islands, the Cook Islands, the Seychelles and other havens, not to mention where they are now – but they do take authorised visitors! And they got there by knowledge in part (not knowing enough) and not by ignorance! You can't claim ignorance about what you know you don't know!

Ignorance is not an excuse! It is a state of being! No one knows what they themselves don't know! How could they? If they knew they would no longer be ignorant. But knowing something does not mean they know enough to remove the lack of knowing i.e. the deficit of knowledge. This is why mentoring is so very important—it helps take care of and fill the very deficits your in-part-knowledge leaves you with, helping you connect all the necessary dots in your whole being—not just one or two aspects of it.

There is never a 'good time' or 'right time' to be mentored; there is only a 'wrong time' and that is seasonal and subjective, often discriminatory and related usually to an event or a series of events you have allowed or caused! Remember, you have been given a 'lifetime'!

From the day you are born you are being mentored by someone or something near you, in front of you or around you. Hopefully it is first your parents and carers, who have your best interests at heart for your growth and development as a human being and at your earliest, you must be mentored by your heavenly Father. He wants to present Himself to you His child—to adopt you into His presence—by His Anointing/Christ. Instead many follow their social media gods with millions of followers descending into the socially contrived pits of hell, suffering all kinds of personal destruction when they don't need to, but do so because they are being mentored by the media they love, into it. It is time to change your mentor!

Mentoring involves the whole person.

It cannot be in fragments by singling out isolated or obscure need without creating great imbalances. Coaching deals with specific needs, or particular wants, systems, modes of practice or getting down certain purposes for achievement of goals. But that is not mentoring.

Mentoring is absorption, a transfer of adaptive energy and thought processes, of establishing the pathway toward the fullness of your own personal identity and destiny, your loves, your likes, your gifts, your faults, your talents, your insanities, your needs and wants, your passion and calling. It produces an amalgam of true coefficient interconnectivity through another (your mentor) and of others, causing active, expansive richness of one's total being. This is all related to our Lord Jesus Christ's values and our Father's values—the values of His and our kingdom realm and domain.

Mentoring is building a default character on foundations of the Anointing's wisdom, experience, true nature and embedded personal intrinsic wealth, with unique and many extraordinarily gifted attributes that often need to be dug out, developing them in your own time, within your own space, and by your own distinctive ways as revealed by the anointing within you!

Great Reward

True mentoring is a beautiful life-giving thing and so rewarding. Yes, even for those who embrace it unknowingly, as many of us have done and still do! But the reward is greatest when one knowingly allows and attaches one's self to their Father who can be totally objective without prejudice, that has your best interest at heart for your life and your love of living and working—doing all that you love to do..... in your love of being all you are meant to be.....!
